Of Interest
Dinosaurs inhabited the land in and around present day Vernal. Red Fleet State Park is home of numerous dinosaur tracks. These tracks are believed to be more than 200 million years old. Paleontologists can tell from these tracks preserved in Navajo sandstone that the dinosaurs were three-toed (tridactyl) and walked on two legs (bipedal). The tracks range from three to 17 inches. A second site of about 40 dinosaur tracks of four to five inches, in the more recent Carmel Formation, has been found in the area, however, the species has not yet been identified.

Directions
Take Interstate 80 east to State Road 40 to Heber. Travel through Heber on this road past Duchesne and Roosevelt and on into Vernal. In Vernal, travel on State Road 40 (Main St.), to Vernal Ave. (State Road 191). Turn left at Vernal Ave. The park is located 13 miles north of Vernal - off State Road 191.
