Traveler's Notes

Barre, VT

This route has it all - rolling hills, twists, turns and one lane bridges! You want to travel this road for the scenery. The area and buildings make you feel like time has forgotten this area. Fall is especially beautiful, as all the leaves become vibrant reds and yellows and oranges.

You will follow a narrow two lane country road, loosely following the White River. There are several one-lane underpasses and narrow bridges. The first 12 miles is very rough, with the road undulating quite a bit. While there are no potholes, the road has tracks that are indented from years of traffic, and that can make steering a bit of a challenge at times. If possible, stay towards the middle of the road.

In East Bethel you will see a covered bridge on the left. In East Randolph you will find a covered bridge on the Hyde Road on the east side of the road and one on the Braley Road on the west side of the road. You will also see the Chelsea road on the east side of the road.

Facts & More Information To Plan Your Trip!

White River near Sharon, VT

- White River Valley: From Royalton to the river's mouth, the valley is occupied by Interstate 89 and Vermont Route 14.
- Sharon: Known as an important historical town as it is the Birthplace of the founder of the Mormon religion, Joseph Smith.
- Stratford: One standout here is the impressive pink mansion, a Vermont-owned historic site that was the residence of Justin Smith Morrill, a three term US Congressman.
- Tunbridge: The town consists of three village centers, all situated on Vermont Route 110 in the valley of the first branch of the White River.
- Brookfield: Best known for its floating bridge which spans Sunset Lake buoyed by pontoons. The bridge, which is the only floating bridge east of the Mississippi River, was originally built in 1820 by Luther Adams and his neighbors.
- Barre: More than 1500 residents are employed by local granite quarries and stonecutters, which produce one-third of the nation's memorial stones.
- Craftsbury Common: A picturesque country town located in the Northeast Kingdom, with rolling hills, white picket fences and family run farms.
